Christmas Buyers Guide

We teach our new recruits this little rhyme to help them select cheese boards…

"Something hard, something blue, something soft with maybe a goat/ewe."

It's a really great starting point to create a board of varied taste and texture that will please almost any Christmas guest. When it comes to quantities the general rule is 50-70g of cheese per person; we like to have a little bit too much for leftovers and toasties in the days afterward so we tend to aim for 100g per person.

Keep your Christmas cheese in the fridge (the natural humidity of the vegetable drawer is actually a perfect spot!) until around 30 minutes – 1 hour before you'd like to tuck in. At this point take it out and let it slowly rise toward room temperature for optimal taste and texture.
